INFORMATION

This Disability Resource Guide should be a helpful tool for community organizations that strive to assist persons with disabilities to find information to assist daily living throughout the city of Atlanta. Although the guide is not all inclusive, it contains information about a variety of organizations and assistance programs that are available to people with disabilities. Additional information can be obtained by contacting United Way 211 which maintains a database that contains a comprehensive listing of programs and services in the metropolitan Atlanta area. United Way 211 information can be accessed via telephone by dialing 211 or online at 211online.unitedwayatlanta.org.

As defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act, a person with disabilities is someone who:

- Has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities;
- Has a record of such an impairment; or
- Is regarded as having impairment

As defined by Social Security Administration for both SSI and Social Security Disability Insurance purposes to be considered disabled, a person must have impairment, medical, psychological, or psychiatric. The disabled person's impairment must also meet the definition of disability which states the impairment must be severe enough that it keeps the person from working, and earning above a certain amount, for at least twelve months. Social Security's definition of disability for adults is different from the definition in other programs. Social Security pays only for total disability. No benefits are payable for partial disability or for short-term disability.

The definitions above are not inclusive of the definitions that may be used with regards to other programs. Different programs and policies use different definitions of disability to base eligibility requirements. There are many different definitions of disability.

Some of the benefits available to people with disabilities include:

- Food Stamps
- Medicaid / Medicare
- Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI)
- Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
- Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)
- Veterans Affairs Compensation (VA)
- Workmen's Compensation

INFORMATION

The Georgia Department of Family and Children Services may be the right place to begin inquiring about medical help, food stamps, or cash assistance. A person can inquire about DFACS services at the office that serves the county and area where they live. A homeless person who lives on the streets, in shelters, or elsewhere can get assistance with a mailing address.

When applying for assistance in a local DFACS office, it may be helpful to be able to provide:

- some identification that shows your name and address;
- proof of earnings or other income, such as Social Security or SSI benefits, or a pension, for each member of your household;
- proof of how much you spend for child care;
- rent receipts or proof of your mortgage payments;
- records of your utility costs; and medical bills for those members of your household age 60 or over and for those getting Social Security or SSI benefits because they are disabled.

Food Stamps are available to low-income individuals, based on standards regarding income and resources.

- Eligibility and benefit amount are based on assistance unit size, income and resources.
- Adults in the assistance unit may have a work requirement if not employed.

NPE is a food program designed to assist older people. It is run by the Department of Health and Human Services through the state agencies on aging. NPE is part of the Grants for State and Community Programs on Aging, which also authorizes in-home services for the frail elderly, supportive services and senior center operations. The nutrition services program assists elderly Americans by providing them with nutritious meals. If you are age 60 or older, you are eligible for the program and so is your spouse, even if he or she isn't 60 years old. Age is the only factor used to decide if you are eligible. You do not have to meet any income limits to receive meals under the program.

Medicaid – The Division of Medical Assistance administers the Medicaid program, which provides health care for people who are aged, blind, disabled or indigent. Medicaid is a benefit program, which provides assistance with medical expenses for low-income individuals and families. Medicaid provides comprehensive health and dental services for eligible individuals and families including: doctor's visits, in-patient hospital care, emergency services, prescription drugs, medical transportation and other services necessary to keep individuals and families healthy. Medicaid does not pay money to you; instead, it sends payments directly to your health care providers.

Medicare – Medicare is medical "insurance" for the aged, blind, and disabled. This program is run by the Federal Department of Health and Human Services. Medicare is the federal health insurance program for: people 65 years of age or older, certain younger people with disabilities.

INFORMATION

Social Security Disability benefits are paid to individuals who have worked in the recent years. Usually you have to work 5 out of the last 10 years. For individuals 31 years old, the requirements are a little different since they have not been in the work force as long.

Supplemental Security Income or SSI pays benefits monthly to individuals aged 65 or older, blind or have a disability. This is a Federal benefit program for the aged, blind, and disabled that have limited or no other income. The disability criteria are the same as for social security benefits.

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) is administered by DHR's Division of Family and Children Services. It is an employment services program to help parent, other relatives, and legal guardians who live with and support children under 19.

- Applicants must be potentially eligible for cash assistance based on present income and resources.
- Applicants must look for work before cash assistance will be approved unless:
  - They are a victim of domestic violence
  - They are disabled, or
  - They already work, or
  - They are a single parent with a child under 12 months of age, or
  - They are not the natural, adoptive or stepparent of the children under age 19 who live with them and whom they support, or
  - They have other concerns which prevent them from working.

Veterans Affairs Disability Benefits:

Compensation – The VA can pay you monthly compensation if you are at least 10% disabled as a result of your military service.

Pension – The VA can pay you a pension if you are a wartime veteran with limited income and you are permanently and totally disabled or are 65 or older.

Disability and Indemnity Compensation is payable to survivors of:

- Service members who died in active duty
- Veterans who died from service related disabilities
- Certain veterans who were being paid 100% VA disability compensation at time of death

For additional information on assistance or benefits through the Department of Veterans Affairs, it may be helpful to contact any VA Office, call 800-827-1000, or visit <http://www.benefits.va.gov/atlanta/>
